Who We Are

The History Trust of South Australia is a statutory authority reporting to Parliament through the Minister for the Arts. It was established in 1981 under the History Trust of South Australia Act (1981, 1995, 2005) to encourage the research and public presentation of South Australian history and to safeguard South Australia's material heritage. The Trust's central administration is located at the Torrens Parade Ground in central Adelaide, but its main public face is presented by three history museums – the Migration Museum, National Motor Museum and South Australian Maritime Museum. Changing exhibitions are also presented in the History Trust Exhibition Gallery at the Parade Ground. The Trust also manages an important community history program to assist community museums and historical researchers. The History Trust's Board of eight trustees reports to the Minister for the Arts.

What We Do

Under the History Trust of South Australia Act (1981, 1995, 2005) the Trust is responsible for the following:

- researching and interpreting South Australia's history;

- managing museums of its own and assisting the State's community museums;
- encouraging and assisting the work of South Australia's historical societies;
- providing policy advice to the Minister for the Arts on issues of relevance to South Australia's history and material culture.

These responsibilities are realised through the following programs:

- managing three museums and a changing exhibitions gallery which interpret aspects of South Australia's history:
  - > the Migration Museum – which preserves and interprets the history of migration to and settlement in South Australia;
  - > the National Motor Museum – which manages and interprets a collection representing Australia's motoring history;

- > the South Australian Maritime Museum – which preserves a collection of maritime heritage objects and interprets the maritime history of South Australia;
- > the History Trust Exhibition Gallery – which presents exhibitions reflecting aspects of the history of South Australia and the city of Adelaide;

- providing advice and assistance to South Australia's 200 community history museums and 150 historical societies, as well as the many individuals who research South Australian history, through the Community History Unit. The Unit also administers two grants programs – the Museums Accreditation and Grants Program (for community museums) and the South Australian History Fund (for South Australian history publications, research and projects);
- managing the State Historical Collection;
- promoting South Australian history and the activities of the History Trust's divisions;
- presenting and promoting events including SA History Week, the State History Conference and other major events.

Chairperson's Report

The Hon John Hill, MP
Minister Assisting the Premier in the Arts

Dear Minister

I am pleased to present the twenty–eighth Annual Report of the History Trust of South Australia, pursuant to section 20 of the History Trust of South Australia Act (1981, 1995, 2005), for the year ended 30 June 2008.

The Board is pleased to record the continuing success of the Trust in achieving its objectives, contributing to the cultural and economic well-being of the community. Levels of attendance increased eight per cent across the Trust's museums, while another 254 834 visitors in regional South Australia and interstate enjoyed access to one of six touring exhibitions.

Community programs were a particular area of success, with more than 55 000 South Australians attending this year's SA History Week. We were gratified that History Week was recognised with a Premier's Ruby Award in September 2007.

Also pleasing was increased usage of the Trust's on-line facility. This is an area flagged for future development by the Board.

I express thanks to my fellow Board members and to the Chief Executive and staff of the History Trust.

The Board also wishes to thank you for your continuing support and interest.

PHILLIP BRODERICK
Chair

Chief Executive's Report

A sustained increase in visitor numbers across all History Trust sites has been the highlight of this year's program. A total of 329 785 site visits was recorded, an increase of eight per cent, with particularly pleasing increases recorded at the National Motor Museum, (11.6 per cent, despite the rising cost of fuel,) and the Migration Museum, where the new displays attracted nine per cent more visitors. The coincidence of two concurrent interstate travelling exhibitions and three regional touring displays meant that an additional 254 834 visits were recorded to these exhibitions in regional South Australia and interstate, to produce the highest overall visitor total ever recorded by the History Trust – 584 619. Virtual visits also showed a substantial increase. Although the Trust has no resources dedicated to producing on-line content at present, we have managed to build additional content during the year from within existing resources.

It was particularly pleasing to see usage of the web-site increase by 61 per cent, underlining the strategic importance of development in this area. Future development of virtual content, including the provision of access to the State History Collection on-line, remains a priority for the Trust in the future.

Exhibition and public programs

Permanent galleries

Exhibitions and associated public programs are the life-blood of museums and, as in previous years, 2007–08 saw an ambitious program offered across the Trust. Especially welcome was the completion of a major re-development project at the Migration Museum, designed to refresh the permanent displays and bring their content up to date. The migration story is always evolving and this was the first time that displays had been revised substantially since the museum opened in 1986. Welcome funding from government allowed the museum to work systematically through the permanent displays over several years, refurbishing the galleries and introducing the histories of more recent immigrant groups. Many of these groups attended the opening of the latest galleries on 11 December, joining Hon John Hill in welcoming the museum's new look. The refurbished galleries have been received enthusiastically by visitors, and visitor numbers have soared since the re-opening. The displays were curated by Viv Szekeres, Christine Finnimore and Catherine Manning and were designed by Margaret Degotardi.

The South Australian Maritime Museum also refreshed one of its best-loved areas this year, re-designing the mezzanine gallery housing the original maritime history collection. This collection has the distinction of being the oldest nautical collection in Australia. Initiated by the Port Adelaide Institute in 1872, it includes many treasures of South Australia's history. Appropriately, the new display is titled Tapestry of Treasures: The First Nautical Museum and is the work of curator Kristy Dermody. The look and feel of an older museum has been retained in the polished wooden table cases, designed to match some of the original Institute cases, as has the object-rich approach to display. These are objects with multi-layered stories to tell and they continue to delight modern visitors just as they did in the 1870s. We are hoping to produce an on-line version of the exhibition during 2008–09.

The National Motor Museum has also reorganised the 'old' pavilion, improving interpretation and creating more space around individual cars to allow for better viewing. This has vastly improved the appearance of the gallery, along with access to the exhibits. Visitor response has been positive. Staff at the museum plan further revisions in the future, once the storage issue is resolved.

Temporary and touring exhibitions

In recent years the Trust has maintained a hectic program of temporary and touring exhibitions, designed to attract repeat visits and to maintain visitor numbers. This presents the organisation with a considerable challenge, since operating funds do not include exhibition funding. The extensive temporary and touring exhibition program this year was funded from external sources, including both grants and corporate sponsorships, and I would like to thank all of our exhibition partners for their support during the year. Some of these partnerships reflect long-term relationships with South Australian business and I would like to acknowledge in particular the significant contribution of Holden, Flinders Ports, AGL, Adelaide City Council, Department for Environment and Heritage and University of South Australia, to the general programs of the Trust.

Of particular note in the exhibition program this year were two South Australian Maritime Museum touring exhibitions. Wrecked! Tragedy and the Southern Seas actually began its interstate tour in 2006–07, but toured to several venues during this financial year, including Port Augusta, as part of the Trust's contribution to that city's inaugural season as Regional Centre for Culture. The second touring show, The River: Life on the Murray Darling, produced in partnership with the Australian National Maritime Museum, proved to be especially topical. It toured to several Riverland venues in regional South Australia and then interstate. Both of these exhibitions were developed and toured with the assistance of the Visions of Australia program. The Visions program has played a particularly significant role in assisting Australia's collecting institutions to tour their collections in the past 15 years. The History Trust certainly could not have contemplated a program of touring exhibitions without its assistance.

Wrecked! Tragedy and the Southern Seas was one of two Maritime Museum touring exhibitions that visited eight venues across three states

1908 Talbot, which completed the first successful crossing of Australia from south to north in 1908

On 30 June the Trust launched its final touring exhibition for the year – Off the Beaten Track: a Journey Across the Nation. Developed by the National Motor Museum, Off the Beaten Track centred on the epic journey of one of the Motor Museum's icons, the 1908 Talbot, which was the first motor vehicle to cross the continent from south to north. Harry Dutton and Murray Aunger left Adelaide on 30 June 1908, arriving in Darwin in late August, and Off the Beaten Track will re-trace that journey as closely as possible, following a similar schedule. Although the Talbot is now too old to be driven this distance, it will be towed in style in a purpose-built trailer-cum-exhibition facility, visiting 22 communities and schools en route. Once again the Trust thanks the Visions of Australia program for funding the development and tour of this exciting exhibition, but is also indebted to some wonderful local sponsors. Of particular note are Russ and Liz Driver of Outback Vehicle Recovery, who will tow the Talbot all the way from Adelaide to Darwin and return. This is an extraordinary contribution by a remarkable couple and we thank them most sincerely. Off the Beaten Track was curated by Allison Russell.

In the History Trust Exhibition Gallery a new exhibition about South Australian politics and society in the 1960s and seventies, Blue Jeans and Jungle Greens: Revisiting the 60s and 70s, opened in February 2008. The exhibition was developed to contribute to a reassessment of the Vietnam War era and places that conflict in the context of the tumultuous social and political movements of the time. Curator Mandy Paul worked with a wide range of individuals and communities to research the exhibition, which brings together opposing points of view on a conflict still vividly recalled by those involved. The exhibition was designed by Arketype and was accompanied by an especially commissioned film by independent filmmaker Malcolm McKinnon. The Trust is grateful for the support of the Department of Veterans' Affairs and South Australian Vietnam veteran groups, as well as that of the many individuals who shared their memories for the exhibition and film. A series of four lectures, presented by visiting academics and exploring aspects of the period, was presented in partnership with the Friends of the Barr Smith Library from June.

A smaller travelling display, designed to tour regional museums, libraries and RSL halls, was also produced with assistance from the ANZAC Day Commemoration Council. This is the fourth small travelling exhibition the Trust has produced in recent years. These displays are designed to be especially easy to install and can be transported in a car boot. They are supplied without charge to regional venues and have proved very popular this year, visiting a total of 27 venues between them and attracting 24 563 visitors.

Augmenting these major exhibitions was a program of smaller temporary displays at each museum. Included in the program at the National Motor Museum was another of the Trust's very successful collaborative exhibitions, produced in partnership with five community museums from the Museums Accreditation and Grants program. Country Roads opened at the Motor Museum in June and features some wonderful objects drawn from the collections of each of the participating museums. It was curated by Amanda James and Allison Russell.

Planning for a program in 2011

Successful exhibitions involve long lead times in planning and research. This year staff began initial scoping and planning for a major exhibition of the state's historical treasures to commemorate South Australia's 175th birthday in 2011. The Trust also hopes to develop a significant on-line resource on South Australian history, to be launched in 2011.

Education programs

The Trust is fortunate to have the services of two talented education officers, provided courtesy of the Education Department through the Open Access College. We value this continuing partnership, which is vital to achieving our overall aims and objectives. At the Migration Museum Rosa Garcia continued to offer innovative and insightful programs, designed to challenge students to approach the history of multiculturalism in South Australia in new ways. A particular highlight of the program at the Migration Museum this year was a very successful comedy festival, Who Do You Think You Are? presented during the Adelaide Fringe Festival. Rosa Garcia and Kearin Hausler from the Marketing Unit put this program together. It used the vehicle of humour to provoke debate about cultural identity and common stereotypes amongst its student audience. The overwhelmingly enthusiastic response from the audiences has encouraged the Museum to attempt further similar programs.

At the South Australian Maritime Museum Mandi Dimitriadis expanded participation in the Museum's programs to an all-time record number of 21 000 participants. A particularly innovative program, linking the history of the Port with its present and introducing students to the complexities of a working port facility, was produced in partnership with Flinders Ports. Their support of the Museum, across several facets of the program, is much appreciated. The Maritime Museum continued to offer its very popular program exploring the history of the Port River and the river's popular dolphin colony, with tours of the river on the launch Archie Badenoch a particular highlight.

Events

SA History Week

Once again SA History Week was a highlight of the Trust's events program, involving more South Australians than ever before in its 10-day program. This year's program was held from 16–25 May: it involved over 200 community groups, presenting nearly 300 activities. From the evaluation returns received, we estimate that more than 55 000 South Australians participated in an event this year, although this total does not include the many school students who participated in related school activities. At present we have no means of estimating school participation. The Trust is very grateful to our many community partners, who collectively make the History week program possible. We estimate that more than 1800 volunteers were involved this year, contributing an estimated 10 000 volunteer hours. All of those involved in History Week were delighted when the 2007 program was recognised with a Premier's Ruby Award in September 2007.

Ironically, this level of success presents the Trust with a real dilemma. This year we were able to make a small operating allocation to SA History Week for the first time, but essentially the program is dependent on external funding. We thank our major partners, the Heritage Branch of the Department for Environment and Heritage, who along with Adelaide City Council supported the very popular Open Doors – Unlocking History feature of the program; and our other partners the University of Adelaide, Messenger Community Newspapers, 891 ABC Adelaide and Channel 9. We could not present the program without them. However the major expense of History Week is the production and distribution of 20 000 programs. Although we also present the program on-line, there is a strong demand from the History Week community for the printed program to continue. It is not feasible to fund the program from subscriptions, since all of those participating are voluntary societies, with very low income bases. We hope to move to an on-line program over time, but in the meantime face an annual challenge to source supporting funding.

Events (Cont)

Events at the National Motor Museum

Each year the National Motor Museum presents a number of popular events which attract large numbers of visitors. The best known is undoubtedly the Bay to Birdwood, presented alternately with the Bay to Birdwood Classic. This year it was the turn of the latter, featuring vehicles manufactured between 1 January 1956 and 31 December 1977. Over 10 000 visitors attended the Classic on 30 September and the Museum was delighted to welcome His Excellency Rear Admiral Kevin Scarce AC CSC RANR, Governor of South Australia, on the day. The annual Rock'n'Roll Rendezvous was also a great success this year. After some years of only passable crowds, the 2008 event, held in April, attracted both more visitors and more car entrants. We had begun to wonder if rock and roll devotees were simply getting too old! Evidently not! The Museum's newest event, the Birdwood Music and Ute Festival, a country music and utes event, was a disappointment, however, with low patronage and only a small number of entrants. After a similar result in 2006 we were prepared to make one more attempt this year, but will not persevere. Evidently this is not a successful formula for the Motor Museum.

State History Conference

The annual State History Conference continues to offer the history community a vibrant opportunity to exchange ideas and engage in collegiate debate and this year's conference, the sixteenth to be held so far, was no exception. It was held in Tanunda on the general theme of 'Country Connections,' and whether the attraction was the program, or the wonderful location in the heart of the Barossa, a record number of 235 delegates assembled over the first weekend in August. Two eminent key-note speakers, Professors Alan Atkinson and Richard Waterhouse, both of the University of Sydney, introduced the general theme, which was then explored in another 40 papers, distributed over three parallel sessions. A most enjoyable program of tours occupied delegates throughout one afternoon. Once again we were supported by our enduring partners the Heritage Branch of the Department for Environment and Heritage and State Records of South Australia. We thank them both sincerely. In this year the Trust also thanks the South Australian Tourism Commission for their contribution. The 2008 conference will be held in Adelaide.

Community History and Partnerships

Strengthening regional and volunteer communities

A strong component of the Trust's work involves regional and volunteer communities. During the year the Community History Unit worked with organisations throughout the state, assisting to build capacity, particularly within volunteer organisations. Community history organisations – museums, historical societies and local archives – are important to regional areas for both economic and social reasons. They are central to local tourism strategies, helping to sustain tourism in regional South Australia, but they also contribute in important ways to community life, preserving community memory and identity. Many are also an important means of sustaining older South Australians as active, engaged members of their communities. Building the capacity of these groups to manage their programs makes an important contribution to the sustainability of regional communities.

Field trips

During this year the Community History Unit conducted many regional field trips, presenting workshops, assisting in strategic planning and providing support with exhibition and collection projects. Many of the workshops were conducted in partnership with our colleagues at Artlab Australia. Assistance with funding such projects was provided through the Museums Accreditation and Grants Program and the South Australian History Fund, both funds which continue to be heavily oversubscribed. Unit staff also participated in a project developing prototype national standards for Australian museums. The standards are due to be launched nationally later in 2008. They will have important implications for all museums in South Australia.

Collection management

The State History Collection

At 30 June 2008 some 27 138 items were accessioned into the State History Collection, managed across the four major divisions of the Trust. As interest in our past grows, the Trust has been offered more collections of importance and this year saw several very significant acquisitions. In the wake of manufacturing closures in South Australia, Electrolux Pty Ltd offered further donations of dishwashers, washing machines and refrigerators, many produced under the long-established Adelaide-based Simpson brand. The company also supported the Trust to conduct an oral history program with Electrolux workers at Regency Park and to commission a short film from Malcolm McKinnon. Entitled 'No Longer Made in Australia,' the film can be viewed on the Trust's website. Mitsubishi also offered the National Motor Museum one of the last Model 380 sedans produced on its assembly line at Tonsley Park. With the assistance of grants from Arts SA and the Department for the Premier and Cabinet the Trust conducted a similar series of oral histories with former Mitsubishi workers and commissioned Malcolm McKinnon to document the assembly line on film. When received, this film will also be published on the History Trust website.

The Catford collection, Orroroo

In April the Trust took possession of a highly significant collection of costume from a private donor, Mrs Beth Catford. Mrs Catford ran the Orroroo Costume Gallery for many years and the Catford–Innes collection was widely recognised as one of the most important private collections of costume in Australia. This is a large collection, consisting of several thousand individual items, and managing the formal transfer of the collection into the History Trust collection management system will probably take some years. It is in temporary storage at the Migration Museum, while a solution to the acute storage shortage facing the Trust overall is sought. The Trust would like to thank Mrs Catford and the Catford family for this most generous donation.

Collections managed by government departments

The issue of the long-term care of collections held by government departments has come to our attention in the past few years. During the year we managed the transfer to the History Trust of an important collection held by the Child Youth Women's Health Service and previously exhibited in a small departmental museum on South Terrace. The History Trust, through the Community History Unit, has also undertaken a number of consultancies for government agencies, to record collections and make recommendations for their future management. An on-going arrangement was made with SA Water to care for their collection for example. However, we are aware that the role of the History Trust in managing the state's material heritage is not widely understood in government and have some concerns about the long-term security of some collections. We will develop a strategy to remind agencies of their responsibility to consult with the Trust about the care of historical items, and work towards re-issuing a Premier's circular on this matter.

Research projects

Active research programs were maintained in all divisions of the Trust to support exhibition programs this year. Of particular interest is a new joint research/exhibition project on the theme of the home in post-Second World War South Australia. It is intended to present a series of exhibitions in 2010 in each museum of the Trust on some aspect of this concept. Collaboration with researchers at the Architecture Museum of the University of South Australia is already underway.

During the year Kate Walsh also assisted the Adelaide Thinkers in Residence program with the organisation of their conference on Social Innovation, an outcome of Geoff Mulgan's residency. Margaret Anderson and Mandy Paul presented a paper on the history of social innovation in South Australia to this conference. Margaret Anderson also presented a research paper on material history at a conference held at the National Museum of Australia in May.

Longer term research priorities include a major research project into the history of the City of Adelaide and a similar study of Port Adelaide, the latter conducted through the South Australian Maritime Museum. It is hoped that both will have significant on-line outcomes, along with the more traditional scholarly books and exhibitions.

Other research projects to make significant progress during the year included a catalogue of the Migration Museum, written and researched by Christine Finnimore and research into the Trust's collection of 16 000 glass negatives for a future publication. The glass negative collection has now been digitised and we hope to be able to make it accessible on-line in the near future. In the meantime a 'photograph of the month' is presented on the website. Research on the collection has been undertaken by volunteer researcher John Davis.

Conclusion

The Trust's small staff continues to manage an extraordinary program of exhibitions, events, education programs and outreach services, presented to the South Australian community throughout the state. I have been delighted this year with the quality of that program and with the enthusiasm of the community's response. Public interest in, and engagement with, our history increases each year. The range of the program and its vitality reflects the energy and enthusiasm of the people who make up the History Trust, both its staff and its Board, and I thank them all sincerely. I also thank our many partners, in government and the corporate world, for their continuing support.

Community History Unit

The Community History Unit is based within the History Trust Directorate. The Unit presents the state-wide annual community-based event SA History Week, produces exhibitions and travelling displays on aspects of South Australian history, and organises the annual State History Conference. The Unit manages a history resource centre that provides advice and assistance to researchers, historical societies, museums and the general public on South Australian history and historical sources, and until the end of this financial year, issued a magazine on South Australian history. The Unit also holds a significant photographic collection, the South Australian Glass Negatives Collection.

The Community History Unit manages the Museums Accreditation and Grants Program (MAGP), which supports the state-wide network of community history museums to document, display, interpret, preserve and promote their local history and material heritage. It also administers the South Australian History Fund (SAHF), which supports research, publications and projects on South Australian history. There is a particular focus on regional South Australia.

Country Connections, Tanunda, August 2007

Community History Unit

This year's public programs were very successful and satisfying. SA History Week attracted increased numbers of participants and attendances at the various activities.

A record number of delegates registered for the State History Conference at Tanunda in August, and visitor numbers to the exhibitions and travelling displays were higher than in previous years.

Exhibition and public programs

SA History Week

This year's SA History Week was held from 16 to 25 May 2008. The event proved its popular standing in the community once again, with an estimated 55 000 visitors attending one or more activities. Over 200 organisations presented close to 300 activities. The popular Open Doors – Unlocking History, sponsored by the Department for Environment and Heritage and Adelaide City Council, featured again, with visitors enjoying the opportunity to peek inside some of the State's built heritage buildings not normally open to the public. The History Trust appreciated the efforts of around 1800 volunteers from across the State who put in an estimated 10 000 volunteer hours. Many organisations reported that SA History Week significantly increased visitor numbers and raised their profile and status in the community. Others reported that participating in History Week resulted in donations to their collections and acted as an impetus for completing new projects. Media coverage increased this year, particularly in regional South Australia. Messenger Community Newspapers continued with its popular photographic wraparound, using images from the Glass Negatives Collection and from local historical societies. In addition, the enthusiastic involvement of 891 ABC Adelaide and Channel 9 combined to ensure the event's success. There was great excitement in September when the 2007 event received a Ruby Award in recognition of History Week's growing impact on the South Australian community.

History Trust Exhibition Gallery

The exhibition, The Voice of the People: Democracy Comes to South Australia, closed in November 2007. Blue Jeans and Jungle Greens: Revisiting the 60s and 70s opened on 19 February 2008. It will remain open until August 2009. This exhibition focused on the Vietnam War era, a time of great political and social turmoil and generational division. The display examined the conflict in Vietnam and the part played by South Australians in the war, and in the anti-war campaign on the home front. It featured a specially commissioned short film by film artist Malcolm McKinnon. It was listed in the Adelaide Fringe visual arts program and advertised in the Writers Week program, which encouraged many visitors during the Adelaide Fringe 2008 Festival of Arts. Blue Jeans was an innovative exhibition, bringing together opposing points of view, still strongly felt four decades on. The support of the Department of Veterans' Affairs and South Australian Vietnam veteran organisations was greatly appreciated. A travelling version of the exhibition was researched and produced, with the regional tour scheduled to commence in August 2008. The History Trust appreciated the support of the ANZAC Day Commemoration Council to produce the travelling display. The Trust also worked with the Friends of the University of Adelaide Library to present a seminar series on topics related to the exhibition themes. The first of these four seminars, examining the gay and lesbian movement during the seventies, was held in June 2008.

The mobile version of the 2004 exhibition, An Adelaide Snapshot 1865: Townsend Duryea's Panorama, continued to be on public display in the Drill Hall, doubling also for use as screens within the Hall.

Travelling Displays

The Unit's three travelling displays continued to tour to regional and metropolitan venues throughout the year. Gallipoli: The South Australian Story toured to seven venues; The Voice of the People: Democracy Comes to South Australia and Vote Yes: the 1967 Referendum each toured to 10 venues.

State History Conference

The sixteenth annual State History Conference, called Country Connections, was held in Tanunda in August 2007. The conference attracted a record number of 235 delegates, with a corresponding record number of 40 presentations, revealing the depth and breadth of current research into aspects of South Australian history, and the strength and diversity of the state's history sector. The Department for Environment and Heritage, State Records of South Australia and the South Australian Tourism Commission gave financial support to the conference. Planning then commenced for the next conference, called Changing Places: Changing Lives, scheduled to be held in Adelaide in early August 2008.

Museums Accreditation and Grants Program (MAGP)

At the end of the financial year, there were 59 museums registered in the Museums Accreditation and Grants Program (MAGP). Four museums left the Program during the year. They were Clayton Farm Museum at Bordertown, Maitland National Trust Museum, Uleybury School Museum at One Tree Hill and Kingston National Trust Museum. Encounter Coast Discovery Centre, managed by the Victor Harbor branch of the National Trust, re-registered in the Program. Urrbrae House Historic Precinct on the Waite Campus of the University of Adelaide was awarded accredited status in December. Unit staff worked closely with the MAGP network during the year, assisting museums with diverse projects, including interpretive plans, strategic planning, display reviews and redevelopments, significance assessments and database training. In all, this assistance involved nine workshops, 22 field trips and many email and phone conversations. The workshops included the popular three-day 'Caring for Collections' skills program conducted by Artlab Australia, held this year in Adelaide and Crystal Brook, and a special five-day program on the Mosaic Plus museums database conducted by the program developers in a joint initiative with the National Trust of South Australia. The Community History Unit was also able to deliver a special two-day intensive training program on Disaster Preparedness and Response in the Mid-North through a Community Heritage Grant from the National Library of Australia. Five issues of MAGP News were produced, focusing on advice and information for the network.

In June the MAGP history display, Country Roads, opened at the National Motor Museum. A group of five MAGP museums worked with the Unit and the National Motor Museum to develop display themes and choose objects related to South Australia's regional motoring history.

Unit staff continued their involvement in the National Standards Taskforce, convened to draft guiding principles and standards for Australian museums and galleries. The Taskforce completed the final version of the standards in May. After a special MAGP focus meeting in early June, Unit staff began the task of aligning the MAGP with the new standards, which will be launched in September 2008.

In the 2007–08 MAGP grant round, the History Trust received 48 applications totalling $392 707 for the $138 000 available. A significant number of applicants applied for $15 000 or more, placing considerable strain on the limited grant fund. Twenty-four applications gained support, including new displays at the Tramway Museum at St Kilda, Booleroo Steam & Traction Preservation Society, Unley Museum, Mary MacKillop Penola Centre, Mannum Dock Museum of River History and Swan Reach Museum. Smaller projects included storage improvements at Axel Stenross Maritime Museum in Port Lincoln, The Sheep's Back Museum at Naracoorte and Koppio Smithy National Trust Museum on Eyre Peninsula, and database projects at Port Pirie National Trust Museum and Goolwa National Trust Museum.

South Australian History Fund

In the 2007–08 South Australian History Fund grant round, the Trust received 58 applications totalling $107 848 for $36 000 available. Twenty-three applications gained support. Four research grants were awarded to professional historians Pat Sumerling and Susan Marsden, and to architectural and design historian Louise Bird, and popular culture historian Stephen Atkinson. The Fund supported three publications, a book of collected essays on Germans in South Australia, a walking trail at Mannum and a biography of Archbishop Matthew Beovich. Conservation of significant objects, archival storage improvements and digitisation and oral history projects were among the 14 projects which gained support. The Australian Society of Archivists (SA Branch) added $1000 to the $35 000 fund to support storage improvements for locally-held archival material. Balaklava Museum was granted this special support for their extensive archive.

Collection management

The Community History Unit continued to assist the Chief Executive to manage the small but growing Directorate collection. Electrolux Pty Ltd made further donations of dishwashers, washing machines and refrigerators, as they closed down their manufacturing operations in South Australia. In April staff helped to pack the large and significant Catford-Innes costume collection at Ororoo in preparation for its transfer to History Trust ownership and storage in Adelaide. With the closure of the Children, Youth and Women's Health Service (CYWHS) museum on South Terrace, the Unit assisted CYWHS to transfer to the History Trust significant items related to the State's history of mother and infant health services.

The Unit remained committed to sharing its expertise and skills with other government agencies seeking to record and care for State-owned items of historical significance. It completed a number of short-term consultancies for Housing SA, Department for Families and Communities during the year, to help sort and relocate its memorabilia collection, and negotiated a new consultancy with SA Water to provide curatorial support one day per week for the 2008–09 financial year. The Department of Health also requested advice and assistance regarding the historical mental health collection held at Glenside Campus.

Finally, the Glass Negatives digitisation project was completed in June. In all, 16 100 images were digitised and the data prepared for transfer to the History Trust's KE-EMu collection database. The Trust hopes to place the collection on-line in the near future.

Community History and Partnerships

The Community History Unit worked extensively with an incredible diversity of community organisations and other agencies to promote awareness of South Australia's history and collections. The Unit liaised with over 200 groups to present SA History Week in May 2008, gave advice and assistance to close to 100 museums across the State, answered hundreds of enquiries from the public, media and researchers through the Resource Centre and worked with over 20 venues hosting one or more travelling displays. Research for the 2008 exhibition, Blue Jeans and Jungle Greens, involved contact with a number of Vietnam War veterans' groups. Staff were involved in community-based programs for Port Augusta as the 2008 Regional Centre of Culture and contributed to the Reconciliation Week program. The Unit maintained a close working relationship with related agencies and organisations, including Artlab Australia, Arts SA, the Heritage Branch of the Department for Environment and Heritage, State Records of South Australia, Adelaide City Council, State Library of South Australia, South Australian Tourism Commission, National Trust of South Australia, Professional Historians Association, History Council of South Australia, National Archives of Australia, Museums Australia and the Collections Council of Australia. Three issues of the magazine, History Matters, were distributed free of charge to most historical societies and museums across the State. It was with some regret and sense of history that the decision was taken at the end of the financial year to cease production of this magazine which has had a continuous print run since 1979, starting first of all in the South Australian Museum's Outreach Program and transferring to the Trust when it was established in 1981.

The Community History Unit also contributed to the Adelaide Thinkers in Residence (ATIR) program for the residency of British thinker Geoff Mulgan, who works in the field of social innovation. The Unit provided expert comments on the draft of a chronology of the history of social innovation in South Australia and worked on the program committee for the Social Innovation Conference held 19–21 June 2008 at the University of South Australia. Unit staff also joined the planning committee for the Interpretation Australia (IAA) national conference, Hearts and Minds, which will be held in Adelaide in October 2008.

Research projects

---

Research projects focused on themes and content for the Blue Jeans and Jungle Greens exhibition.

Research also continued on the Glass Negatives Collection.

Resource management

Two staff gained their Certificate IV in Training and Assessment and all staff attended Disability Awareness training. The Unit hosted a placement student from Flinders University Cultural Tourism course. All staff participated in performance reviews.

The Community History Unit appreciated the contribution of the Trust's Chief Executive, Marketing and Business Units and other Trust museums to the successful and efficient delivery of its public programs.

Conclusion

During the year Community History Unit staff maintained high levels of commitment and energy to present to the public a full and exciting array of programs focused on South Australia's rich and complex history.

The year's successes can be attributed to consistent and dedicated efforts by this small group of 3.7 FTE staff. In return, these programs were well patronised and supported by the history sector and the wider community.

Migration Museum

The Migration Museum opened in December 1986 as a social history museum with a mission to collect, preserve, document and interpret the history and cultural traditions of South Australia's immigrants. Its challenging brief has been met over its 22 years through a vibrant and creative program of changing exhibitions, educational tours and special events, as well as the development of a significant collection of objects, with particular strengths in documents and textiles. The Museum has worked closely with individuals and community groups in order to achieve its goals and is well known and highly respected among South Australian communities. In addition, the Migration Museum is a key destination for both overseas and interstate visitors.

Sym Choon family story on display in new twentieth century galleries at the Migration Museum

Migration Museum

The last 12 months have seen major changes at the Migration Museum. The highly anticipated new twentieth and twenty-first century galleries opened in December, to widespread acclaim from both local and international visitors and media.

In addition to the final stage of the redevelopment, an appealing program of exhibitions and events was mounted and the Museum's innovative education programs continued to be in great demand. New partnerships were forged and existing ones sustained.

---

The new twentieth and twenty-first century galleries opened on 11 December. This refurbishment brings the Museum up to date in terms of immigration and settlement history and increases visitor access to the collections on display. Consistent with the demand for interactive features at the Museum, two touch-screen programs were designed for use in the new galleries. One is about post-Second World War migrants and the other is about the impact of settlement on Indigenous people. Both are proving to be very popular with visitors.

The launch of the new galleries by Hon John Hill Minister Assisting the Premier in the Arts, provided an opportunity for the Museum to include the many community groups and stakeholders who contributed to the redevelopment and without whose valuable contribution the project would not have been possible. The launch also gave us a chance to acknowledge the generous support of the State Government which provided the grant to complete the project.

Concurrent with the redevelopment, the Museum also mounted a number of other exhibitions. Highlights this year included exhibitions such as Selected Chinese Prints of the Twentieth Century, toured from the People's Republic of China and Hope: The Utopian Imagination of Young People on the Margins, developed with the University of South Australia (Uni SA) for the 2008 Adelaide Festival of Arts.

The refurbished Chapel provided a versatile space for both Museum functions and events hosted by other organisations. A particular highlight was the hire of the Chapel by the 2008 Cello Festival. For 10 days the Chapel became the workspace for a small group of national and international cello makers, who had the challenge of building a quality cello in little over a week. This unique event provided visitors with a fascinating insight into cello-making and attracted a new and diverse range of people to the Museum.

This year we also hosted a number of in-house events in the Chapel, such as the popular Philosophers' Café breakfast and Foundation morning teas. The morning teas are a way of welcoming new members to the Museum's Foundation and are always well attended. This year the Foundation attracted 84 new members, bringing the total number of members to 1726.

The Museum's education program continued to meet demand for educational experiences that expose students to the rich cultural and historical life of the State. The core menu, which includes regular programs such as Immigration: An overview and Children in 19th century South Australia, was in high demand. Especially popular this year was the interactive multi-media program, Unpacking Histories.

Special education events included a repeat of the Chinese calligraphy workshops presented by the Association of South Australian Chinese Writers, and Celebrations, a program focusing on traditions from three different cultures. This year included Romanian culture and traditions, and was designed to complement a display mounted by the Romanian community for their national day.

The highlight of the education calendar this year was a comedy event entitled Who Do You Think You Are? Presented during the Adelaide Fringe Festival, it was a workshop and performance aimed at facilitating debate on cultural identity. Forged out of a successful partnership between the Museum and performers Simon Palomares, Jason Chong, Mujahid Ahmed, Daniel Townes, Sean Choolburra and Micky D, it proved enormously successful, with most sessions sold out. Similar events are being planned for the coming year.

---

At the end of the financial year the Migration Museum had 7112 objects in the collection with 6907 entered onto the database. The transfer of the previous collection database to KE-EMu is now complete, but there is an ongoing process of tidying up classifications and locations. The process of adjustment will continue for some time.

Items of special interest among donations were a quilt made in 1827 and brought to South Australia in the early days of the colony, an Afghani costume, two trunks with wonderful immigration stories, a wine press and a hand-woven basket.

The Museum has lent objects relating to John McDouall Stuart to the Masonic Centre, relics of the Afghan cameleers to the South Australian Museum and is working closely with the Adelaide Botanic Garden on loan items for future exhibition in the Museum of Economic Botany. Sighting the collection continues, as does photographing all objects and entering them onto the database.

The Migration Museum has had approximately 20 items conserved at Arlab during the year, although these numbers do not take into account conservation work being undertaken for the Museum's approaching exhibition on documents – Evidence of Survival. As in previous years, preventive conservation has taken up a substantial portion of Arlab's program, with pest management at Netley and environmental monitoring in the Museum galleries and at Netley being ongoing procedures.

The collection is managed with the assistance of volunteers who carry out a wide range of tasks – care of the weapons collection, oral history interviewing and transcribing, accessioning objects, photographs and books, and entering research material onto a database. The Museum thanks the volunteers for their indispensable work.

The Migration Museum maintained its extensive partnerships with community groups. In collaboration with Museum staff, the Greek Cypriot Community, Womens' organisation Zonta International, and the Organisation of Helene and Hellene-Cypriot Women of Australia (OEEGA) presented a range of exhibitions in the Forum gallery.

Community work was further extended with the Romanian community mounting a small display on Romanian culture and traditions and celebrating their national day in the Chapel. The Filipino Community installed a plaque on the Memorial Wall and other communities, such as the Bosnian-Herzegovinian community, chose the Museum as a site for their commemoration events.

The Museum's profile in the wider community was enhanced with staff producing many talks and publications for both local and international audiences. The Museum's Director, Viv Szekeres, gave a paper to an international conference, Museums and Refugees, at the Museum of London, as well as a Flinders University conference Moving Cultures, Shifting Identities.

Curators Christine Finnimore, Catherine Manning, Jill MacKenzie and Director Viv Szekeres, in collaboration with Multicultural South Australia and Arlab Australia, gave a number of successful workshops to community groups and Education Officer Rosa Garcia and Curator Catherine Manning presented at the State Volunteers' Congress on 'Volunteers and Cultural Diversity'. Director Viv Szekeres once again delivered a special lecture to Cultural Tourism students at Flinders University.

The Museum also participated in SA History Week this year with two events. The Way I Saw It: Share Your Stories invited participants to bring in their photos for copying and tell their stories, while the interactive education program Unpacking Histories was also presented for History Week participants. The Museum provided the venue for an exhibition entitled Moved, as part of the 2008 National Jewellers' Conference and also provided the venue for the opening of the 2007 South Australian Living Artists Festival.

The Chapel function space provided opportunities to develop new partnerships with organisations such as the Ethics Centre, Uni SA, Department of Immigration and Citizenship, Cello Festival and Council on the Aging. Existing partnerships were also strengthened, with the Attorney-General's Department, Department for Transport, Energy and Infrastructure and the Courts Administration Authority - working with the Museum to present cultural awareness training for their staff in the Chapel.

Research projects

Research for a new Museum catalogue to be published in 2008 was undertaken by Senior Curator Christine Finnimore. Museum Director Viv Szekeres wrote a chapter for a forthcoming book on Museums in Australia and collaborated with Education Officer Rosa Garcia to write a chapter for a United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation (UNESCO) publication about refugee issues and Museum education programs.

The redevelopment dominated resource management for the first half of the year, and despite the many challenges it presented, was finished on budget. The project provided an opportunity to implement energy-saving lighting in the new galleries. Light Emitting Diode (LED) lighting in all cases replaced the old lights and it is anticipated that this will improve the energy efficiency of the Museum.

There were a number of personnel changes this year. Curator Catherine Manning returned to work in August after a year travelling overseas.

Jill MacKenzie moved on to the History Trust and Jessamy Benger returned from maternity leave. Demand for the Museum's education programs saw four new casual guides employed. Heather Hayden, Fiona Lukac, Margot Politis and Ron Rogers were welcomed in May, and Ting Adolphus returned from Sweden in November.

The Museum was fortunate to have three very capable interns this year. Ute Esch from Germany, Martin Jensen from Denmark and Nikki May, a Cultural Tourism student from Flinders University, joined us for short periods throughout the year.

Conclusion

---

The Migration Museum has enjoyed a successful year. With the final phase of the redevelopment completed and visitor numbers in excess of 174 000, community support for the Museum continues to grow.

The Museum's success is due in large part to a dedicated team of skilled individuals who work tirelessly to ensure that South Australians have a vibrant place in which to experience their history.

National Motor Museum

The National Motor Museum's reputation as the centre for Australian motoring history continues to grow – a long way from its beginnings as a small private motorcycle museum in a disused flourmill in 1965. Its acquisition by the South Australian Government in 1976, and subsequent incorporation into the newly formed History Trust of South Australia in 1982, laid the foundation for the development of a museum of international standing and a major South Australian tourism attraction.

The Museum today displays over three hundred vehicles in three pavilions. It aims to present the history of the motor vehicle in Australia and the ways in which the motor vehicle has changed Australian society.

To have and to Holden: an Australian love affair celebrating 150 years of Holden in Australia

National Motor Museum

This has been a most successful year for the National Motor Museum, with a very pleasing increase in visitor numbers, after several years of minimal growth. In all 70 128 visits were recorded – an increase of 11.6 per cent. Two very successful major events account for part of this increase, with the remainder reflecting a very busy program of exhibitions and community club events. A new series of radio commercials and other successful promotional arrangements also assisted to keep the Motor Museum's brand in the public arena.

Also very pleasing was the Museum's continuing success in attracting assistance with programs from the business sector. We acknowledge in particular our long-standing and tremendously important relationship with Holden.

This year marks 10 years of unbroken support from Holden, a partnership that is central to our continuing success, and we thank them most sincerely.

A development that has proven very successful in engaging the motoring community and visitor alike is the expanded community access Club Space. In the past 12 months displays were presented by the FE-FC, Holden Car Club, the Adelaide Hills Motor Restorers' Club, the Ford 8 & 10 Sidevalve Club, the MG Car Club, the Singer Car Club, the Chevrolet Performance Association and the Leyland P76 Owners Club. Many club members visited the Museum on special club days and the results can be seen in the growth of visitor figures.

This year's exhibition program has been particularly active, with four new temporary exhibitions in situ and one major touring exhibition, as well as an active program of smaller changing displays in the community access club space. This enormous program was excellently managed by Senior Curator Allison Russell.

The Museum's principal temporary exhibition gallery, 'the Drum', housed two exhibitions this year – Velocity: Built for Speed, an exhibition featuring, as the title implies, vehicles designed to maximise speed, and To Have and to Holden: an Australian Love Affair. To Have and to Holden explored the history of Holden from its beginnings as a saddlery in 1856, charting the evolution of the company from coach building into motor vehicle manufacturing in the 1920s and beyond. A number of iconic Holdens were featured, including the Holden Torana GTR-X and the first Holden 48-215 which was the first true Holden badged under the company name. The exhibition also charted the strong cultural links between Holden ownership and Australian identity, particularly in the immediate post-second world war period, and the crucial place of the motor vehicle manufacturing industry in the economy of South Australia.

The Motor Museum also maintains a smaller temporary exhibition space which this year presented two new exhibitions. The Jazz Age examined popular images of the 1920s and early 1930s and the culture of consumption that emerged in those decades expressed, through car ownership, air travel, telephones and jazz – amongst those who could afford it, of course. It proved to be a popular exhibition with visitors. This exhibition was succeeded by Elfin Magic, a display charting the history of the South Australian racing/sports car manufacturer, Elfin. This is a fascinating story of survival against the odds, of a small, specialist, manufacturing company, which found a niche in the market.

A rather different collaborative exhibition was developed in partnership with the Community History Unit and five regional museums from the Museums Accreditation and Grants Program. The exhibition, Country Roads, opened in June and features some marvellous objects from regional collections, along with some fascinating stories from the participating regions.

A notable finale to the exhibition program during the year was the launch on 30 June of the Museum's major touring exhibition Off the Beaten Track: a journey across the nation. Off the Beaten Track received funding from the Visions of Australia program, both development and touring grants. It centred on the Museum's 1908 Talbot, the motor vehicle that was the first to cross the continent from south to north in 1908. The story of Harry Dutton and Murray Aunger's journey is an exciting one and the exhibition has attracted huge interest wherever it has been shown. The tour is planned to visit 22 remote and regional communities as close to the original route as possible, to finish in Darwin in August 2008. This exhibition has been assisted by a number of very generous sponsorships, including a huge contribution from the husband and wife team who manage Outback Vehicle Recovery, Liz and Russ Driver. They will tow the exhibition trailer containing the Talbot for the entire journey. It is an extraordinary contribution.

Events

The National Motor Museum presents two long-standing, popular events – the Bay to Birdwood Run, (alternating with the Bay to Birdwood Classic) and the Rock and Roll Rendezvous. This year's Bay to Birdwood Classic held on 30 September in the presence of His Excellency Rear Admiral Kevin Scarce, AC CSC RANR, Governor of South Australia, was a great success, attracting over 10 000 visitors on the day, while the Rock and Roll Rendezvous saw a significant increase over previous years in both visitors and vehicle entries.

A second attempt to introduce an additional major event, showcasing country music and utes, was less successful and will not be repeated. However, a smaller Motor Cycle Show and Shine, held on 17 February in association with the Freemason Foundation, attracted over 500 motorcycle riders. The motorcycle event was a free day, with a focus on men's health issues, and the response exceeded all expectations. The events program is ably managed by Pauline Renner.

During the year curatorial staff continued to progress the long term Collection Management Strategy, first developed in 2002. This involves an intensive program of collection review and consolidation. However, the Museum continues to accept donations from all over Australia, subject to a rigorous assessment process. Notable additions to the collection during the year included:

- a Mitsubishi 380 sedan
- a collection of Grand Prix posters and memorabilia
- 1976 Suzuki GT750 motorcycle
- 1982 Ford Fairmont XD
- a significant collection of motoring books, magazines and other media donated by long-term volunteer George Brooks.

Curatorial staff Allison Russell and Matthew Lombard continued to manage a large number of requests for information about the collection, ably assisted by a group of volunteers – Wolfgang Warmer, Chris Bennett, Richard Sage, Dave Richardson and Darryl Grey. The National Motor Museum's library also continues to expand through donations from the public. Another volunteer, Peter Stopford, continues the cataloguing of the donations on a weekly basis. We thank all of our volunteers for their invaluable contribution to the on-going work of the Museum.

Progress was also made in preservation and conservation of the vehicle collection, with the assistance of Artlab Australia. One of the longer term projects involves restoration of the boiler of a collection icon, the Shearer steam car, the first motor vehicle made in South Australia. This project involves a partnership with Panorama TAFE.

Museum staff undertook a particularly busy program of community engagement this year, providing displays at a range of events, including the Adelaide Motor Show, the Tour Down Under in Stirling, All Ford Day, All British Day, Clipsal 500 and the Rolls Royce National Rally. A visit to the Edinburgh Air Show also elicited significant interest. An exhibition celebrating Holden's sixtieth anniversary was produced by the Museum for Holden and will tour Holden dealerships.

A welcome development during the year was a partnership negotiated with Just Cars magazine to produce a monthly feature on an aspect of the Museum's collection or motoring history. The first issue appeared in June 2008 and featured the story of the Talbot.

The Talbot also featured on a range of popular television programs on the ABC and Channel 9. In addition, staff presented many lectures and informal talks to community groups.

The National Motor Museum also took a leading role in the formation of a new Australian Motor Museums Association, which was launched during the year. The first annual general meeting will be held at the Museum later in 2008.

There were some staff movements during the year. Temporary designer Simon Maloney left after a successful two years as designer when Mark Eckermann returned from leave without pay, and long-term groundsman Keith Norrish retired after 20 years at the Museum.

All staff participated in a range of training programs, including customer service training and continuing occupational health safety and welfare. In addition, all staff completed disability awareness training.

Maintenance of the Museum's heritage mill building has been a significant issue for some years, with the mill closed to visitors since 2004. It was therefore particularly pleasing that funds were provided to begin mitigation work on the mill and on the surrounding area to improve the management of waste water. This work, managed by Arts SA, is expected to be completed in the next financial year.

Of course, the Museum is entirely dependent on a range of corporate sponsors who provide funds for exhibitions and public programs. I would like to thank all of our sponsors most sincerely for their ongoing support and look forward to continuing to build mutually beneficial relationships with them. They are acknowledged by name later in the report.

Conclusion

---

The National Motor Museum continues to be acknowledged as a leader in the interpretation of Australian motoring history, a role we value highly. Improvements in the Museum this year have attempted to further cement that position, with enhanced interpretation of the permanent collection and an active program of temporary and touring exhibitions. Community engagement has been particularly active, with participation at a huge range of community events, some at the Museum, others off-site. We plan to continue this program of active engagement. The results speak for themselves, with the strongest visitor figures since 1997–98, when the 'new' pavilion first opened. I would like to thank all of our staff and volunteers who have been partners in this great result and look forward to continuing success in years to come.

Divisional Reports

South Australian Maritime Museum

The South Australian Maritime Museum cares for the oldest nautical collection in Australia, a collection begun in Port Adelaide in 1872. It has earned an international reputation amongst maritime museums and is recognised as one of the premier tourist attractions in South Australia.

The Maritime Museum was established in 1986 to collect, preserve and promote the State's maritime history. The Museum is spread over several sites, including the Bond Store exhibition galleries, the Port Adelaide Lighthouse, the Bank administration building, stores at Netley and Dock Two Port Adelaide and three major vessels – Nelcebee (1883) the oldest powered ship in Australia, police launch Archie Badenoch (1942) and steam tug Yelta (1949).

Pirates: Skulduggery at the Maritime Museum combined theatre with interactive exhibits and a sense of fun that proved resoundingly popular.

South Australian Maritime Museum

This was a year in which the Museum saw the results of several years of hard work, producing two major exhibitions that took South Australian history to national audiences. The touring exhibitions Wrecked! Tragedy and the Southern Sea and The River – Life on the Murray Darling were visited by over 229 000 people across eight venues in three states. Those visitors were additional to an audience of more than 72 000 people who visited the Maritime Museum's exhibitions and public programs in Port Adelaide.

---

The Maritime Museum presented a very full program that embraced the redevelopment of a core exhibition, three new temporary exhibitions and two national touring exhibitions, as well as a calendar of vacation programs that attracted audiences ranging from school groups to seniors and tourists to the local community. A new core exhibition focused on local history with national significance. Tapestry of Treasures: The First Nautical Museum celebrated a collection that was begun by the Port Adelaide Institute in 1872 and is today the heart of the South Australian Maritime Museum. It is the oldest nautical collection in Australia. The exhibition show-cased the Museum's own heritage and its place in the local community. It proved to be popular with visitors, who were charmed by the nineteenth century ambience of the Port Adelaide Institute's original timber showcases, but also engaged by a new layer of interpretation, bringing the collection to life for a new generation of museum visitors, and asking questions about what museums collect.

In addition, the Museum presented an exhibition that explored the history of one of Australia's largest shipping lines, the Adelaide Steamship Company, with a history dating back to 1875. It was also a company that was at the centre of much of South Australia's history. The exhibition drew very strong local interest and attracted many former crew, passengers and shareholders to the Museum. Opening in July 2007, the exhibition proved to be very timely as it preceded the sale of Adsteam Marine, formerly the Adelaide Steamship Company, to the Danish shipping company Svitzer, perhaps marking the close of a chapter in the State's history.

In addition to presenting local histories, the Maritime Museum presented exhibitions to audiences in three States. The touring exhibition Wrecked! Tragedy and the Southern Sea visited museums in Canberra and Sydney. It presented a truly rich collection of artefacts that ranged from seventeenth century Dutch wreck material to artefacts from some of Australia's most famous shipwrecks, such as the wreck of the Admella that rocked the infant colony in 1859 with the loss of 89 lives and the Star of Greece, that sank off Port Willunga in 1888. Fittingly, the exhibition ended its two-year national tour at Port Augusta where it formed part of the celebration of South Australia's first Regional Centre of Culture.

The River - Life on the Murray Darling was the second touring exhibition during the year. It was a project produced in partnership with the Australian National Maritime Museum, which has taken on the role of managing the national tour. The exhibition explored the social history of the rivers, looking at the experiences and the views of those who have lived on the rivers, from paddle steamer crews to Aboriginal communities, and soldier-settlers to post-war migrants. A collaboration between museums in Sydney and Adelaide proved to be a sound foundation for exploring a history that has crossed borders since the foundation of South Australia.

The Maritime Museum also hosted two significant touring exhibitions. Between the Flags: 100 Years of Surf Life Saving marked the anniversary of a movement that is deeply ingrained in Australian sport and leisure. The exhibition was produced by the National Museum of Australia and opened in Port Adelaide in September 2007. Escape: Fremantle to Freedom portrayed the remarkable story of a group of Irish convicts who escaped from the Swan River Colony to the United States onboard the whaling ship Catalpa in 1876. The exhibition was produced by Fremantle Prison.

An active program of holiday attractions was also presented for the growing number of family audiences. Throughout January, our pirates program Skulduggery at the Maritime Museum combined performance and theatre with interactive exhibits and a sense of fun, in a mix that proved to be resoundingly popular. Craft activities and cruises on our vessels were also featured in a program that has placed the Maritime Museum firmly on the calendars of many families and vacation care groups.

The richness of the collection is a fundamental strength of the South Australian Maritime Museum and its growth over the past 135 years has given the State a wonderful legacy. The management of that collection depends on the ongoing work of the Museum's curators and a number of dedicated volunteers, who steadily work through the task of ensuring a high standard of storage and documentation for over 17 000 objects and 19 000 photographs.

It also depends on managing the careful growth of the collection, and through the year some very significant additions were made to the collection.

The Danish shipping company Svitzer acquired Adsteam Marine in 2007, and in acknowledging the South Australian heritage of that company, they generously donated some artefacts to the Maritime Museum. These items included builders' models of the Adelaide Steamship vessels SS Adelaide dating from 1883 and SS Innamincka dating from 1890, company share registers and archives. Another significant acquisition was a watercolour of the Star of Greece stranded off Port Willunga in 1888. Painted by George Frederick Gregory, it was a particularly important acquisition for the Museum, complementing existing material in our collection, such as the ship's figurehead.

---

One of the great strengths of the Maritime Museum is the close relationship between the history it explores and its location in the historic centre of South Australia's major port. As well as the symbolism of geography, that location has given the Museum a close and meaningful relationship with the community whose history it explores. Many assist in Museum programs. A growing crew of volunteers devoted Wednesdays and Fridays to working on the tug Yelta. Others crewed the launch Archie Badenoch, taking students on the Port River to study the working port and the marine environment. They were supported by volunteers from the Whale and Dolphin Conservation Society, whose partnership with the Maritime Museum has now entered its fourth year. Volunteers from this society provided the scientific knowledge to support our programs interpreting the marine environment. Such volunteers provide essential support to the Museum. As well as maintaining our vessels, our library and our collection, they extended the Museum's reach into the community. That was most evident in work to establish a seafarers' memorial for Port Adelaide. Growing from discussions amongst the Museum's volunteers, groups including the Merchant Navy Association, the Maritime Union and the Port Adelaide Historical Society, great progress was made in winning the support to establish a memorial to commemorate the lives of seafarers lost at sea.

The Maritime Museum's programs often encompass both past and future. This year, the Museum forged new partnerships with Dubai World and Flinders Ports to present tours of the working port, providing views of the container terminal, international passenger terminal and maritime control tower. The programs have been met with great enthusiasm and take the Museum's programs well beyond its walls.

All of our education programs were founded on an ongoing partnership with Open Access College. That integrates the Museum into the education system, by seconding a teacher to the Museum. It has proved to be a strong partnership, ensuring that the Museum's program keeps pace with changes in the curriculum. It has produced programs that are acknowledged within both the museum and the education profession as innovative and outward looking. Education programs explored curriculum areas from marine science to social history. Some programs took students on the Port River to listen to dolphins via a hydrophone. Others invited them into the Museum, where retired stevedores and seafarers led them in raising the rigging of a nineteenth century ketch. Students climbed into replica bunks from an 1840s immigrant ship and followed audio tours around the Museum and the port. The range of programs proved to be a great success, and set a new record in attendances, attracting over 21 000 students.

Research projects

The major focus of the Museum's research was the exhibitions and public programs presented. In particular, work was begun with colleagues at the South Australian Museum examining the history of the search for the south magnetic pole. It is a history that stretches from James Cook's voyages of the 1770s to the year 2000 and the dual perspective, encompassing both science and maritime history, will bring new insights.

In addition, the Museum continued work on South Australia's sail traders. The history of the Southern Coast is distinguished by a long history of commercial sail, that saw ketches and schooners trading along the coast into the 1960s. That history has been explored previously in exhibitions on the ketch trade, but during the year a new project was started to look at that history through the perspective of one of the State's oldest ships, and to begin collecting oral histories of those who worked on the ketch Nelcebee. Staff of the Museum also presented conference papers on twentieth century immigration, the ketch trade and the history of maritime museums in Australia.

The Maritime Museum continued to enjoy the support of several key sponsors. Flinders Ports entered a three year partnership to sponsor the Museum's exhibitions and education programs. AGL's Torrens Island Power Station generously sponsored the launch Archie Badenoch and its program taking school groups on tours of the Port River to study the marine environment. The Museum's own Friends group provided critical support for the production of the exhibition Tapestry of Treasures: the First Nautical Museum. Their ongoing generosity has been critical to the Museum's success.

At the same time, substantial challenges were faced in maintaining the heritage buildings and larger vessels, the steam tug Yelta and the Nelcebee. While the Museum is buoyed by dedicated volunteers who maintain its fleet, those efforts are limited by the need for materials and funding to support their work.

Conclusion

---

The Museum's very active calendar of education programs and exhibitions at home and interstate drew a wonderful response from audiences. In addition to a successful year in terms of visitor numbers, the year's programs stimulated many ideas which can be built upon. They also demonstrated the continuing relevance of maritime history in shaping views of the present as well as the past.

Divisional Reports

Marketing and Sponsorship

The Marketing Unit is based within the History Trust Directorate. It provides marketing services to all divisions of the Trust and assists in securing sponsorships. In addition, it conducts regular visitor surveys and researches tourism trends in South Australia. The History Trust's website is maintained and updated by the Unit.

Marketing and Sponsorship

The History Trust of South Australia experienced a remarkable increase in visitor numbers throughout the 2007–08 financial year. Exactly 329 785 people visited a Trust museum or gallery, which represents an increase of 23 528 (7.68 per cent) from the previous year. All museums experienced an increase in visitors, with the National Motor Museum seeing an increase of 11.57 per cent, the South Australian Maritime Museum 2.24 per cent and the Migration Museum 8.92 per cent. The History Trust Exhibition Gallery saw an increase of 61.83 per cent. The sole exception was the use of the Queen's Theatre, which decreased by 21 per cent due to a six-month closure for maintenance work.

The National Motor Museum experienced its highest number of visitors since 1996–97, excluding the year when the Holden Pavilion of Australian Motoring opened in 1998. The South Australian Maritime Museum experienced its highest visitor numbers since 1999–2000 and its January figure of 13 617 was the third highest monthly total on the Marketing Unit's records. The Migration Museum also enjoyed the highest visitor figure on the Marketing Unit's records. In addition, the South Australian Maritime Museum, the National Motor Museum and the History Trust had one or more travelling exhibitions tour around South Australia, as well as interstate. A staggering 254 834 people experienced at least one of the six travelling exhibitions, all of which were financed by outside funding. This represents an increase of 142 580 from the previous year.

The Trust's website experienced a pleasing 376 787 virtual visitors – 61 per cent more than the previous year – and 246 per cent more than in 2005–06. In order to improve the website content and usability, the Trust consulted with a Web Strategist with a view to planning the expansion of the content to include more general information on the state's history. However, implementation of the report's recommendations will depend on funding.

To the best of the Trust's knowledge, it received 1386 mentions in print, radio, TV and online media, including feature print stories and staff broadcast interviews. It is understood that many other mentions were made, but were not noted by the Trust's media monitoring service. The Trust's corporate division received 505 print, radio, TV and online mentions, the Migration Museum 223, the National Motor Museum 469 and the South Australian Maritime Museum 189. This quantity of coverage was assisted by the investment in a national media database on-line system in May 2008.

Blue Jeans and Jungle Jeans: Revisiting the 60s and 70s exhibitions

Marketing activity continued to focus on the Museums' changing exhibitions programs, with a focus on radio advertising, courtesy of the additional gratis air time and promotional activity that is provided. Generic ongoing radio advertising proved fruitful for the National Motor Museum. A series of ongoing generic television commercials also for the National Motor Museum went to air on Channel 9. The South Australian Maritime Museum's advertising focused on its changing exhibitions during school holiday periods. In addition, television advertising on Channel 9 continued as community service announcements, thanks to Channel 9's ongoing support. Channel 9 and Radio 5AA media personality Keith Conlon continued to represent the Trust as a Media Ambassador. His personal interest in the Trust and South Australian history provided an ideal profiling opportunity and the Trust thanks Keith most warmly for his ongoing support. The increased profile of SA History Week 2008 was another significant achievement, with over 55 000 people experiencing the event state-wide. The event also received an overwhelming response from the broadcast and print media.

The Marketing Unit welcomed Kearin Hausler as Marketing Coordinator on a 12-month contract when Lee Tillett, the substantive Marketing Co-ordinator, took 12 months leave without pay.

History Trust Public Programs

History Trust Exhibition Gallery

Throughout the year 5973 visitors entered the gallery which represented a significant increase of 62 per cent over the previous year (+2282). Given the restricted opening times of this gallery, (weekdays only,) this was a very pleasing result.

The two exhibitions exhibited during this period included The Voice of the People: Democracy Comes to South Australia and Blue Jeans and Jungle Jeans: Revisiting the 60s and 70s. The Trust thanks The Advertiser for supporting the latter exhibition by running free monthly advertisements, as well as Channel 9's Postcards program, which ran a feature and Radio 891 ABC Adelaide, which conducted a live broadcast based on the exhibition.

SA History Week

On 7 September 2007 SA History Week 2007 was awarded the 'Community Impact [under $100 000]' Ruby Award which was another significant achievement.

SA History Week 2008 was experienced by 55 000 people confirming that its profile is growing rapidly. This year it was launched with a Radio 891 ABC Adelaide outside broadcast in the tunnels underneath the Old Lion Hotel on Thursday 15 May. Peter Goers hosted the broadcast and it was themed around the Blue Jeans and Jungle Jeans: Revisiting the 60s and 70s exhibition. A range of people profiled in the exhibition were interviewed. The ABC ran a promotion in which listeners could win an opportunity to attend the broadcast and were encouraged to dress in the style of the period.

Messenger Community Newspapers continued their support of the event by running the special SA History Week wrap-arounds on all 11 papers. This was supported by significant editorial coverage over three weeks prior to and during the week itself. The Trust thanks Messenger Community Newspapers for their continued support of this event. A small amount of airtime was purchased during Channel 9's Postcards program. A television commercial featuring Keith Conlon was aired and Channel 9 also supported the campaign with significant unpaid airtime. A story also appeared on Postcards which promoted events in the Kent Town area. A dedicated mini-site was developed on the website to better assist with public enquiries. Twenty thousand programs were distributed state-wide, with posters and Corflute signs for participants to display outside their venues. The event received significant State-wide editorial coverage on radio and in print with a particular focus in regional areas. The Trust also thanks the University of Adelaide, Department for Environment and Heritage, Department of Health, Adelaide City Council, Envestra and South Australian Tourism Commission for their financial support of this event. Once again, the event proved a most effective profiling mechanism both for the Trust, and for the State's history.

SA History Week 2008 booklet

Migration Museum

A total of 174 353 visitors experienced the Migration Museum this year. This exceeded the previous year by 8.92 per cent (+14 282), which is a fantastic increase.

The focus for the Museum's marketing program was the launch of the re-developed galleries. This involved a very successful outside broadcast held by Radio 891 ABC Adelaide, during which migrants featured in the new displays were interviewed by Carole Whitelock. Channel 9's Postcards program also featured the story. The Advertiser wrote a feature story, which appeared on Australia Day, telling the story of one migrant and her experiences and also detailing the re-development.

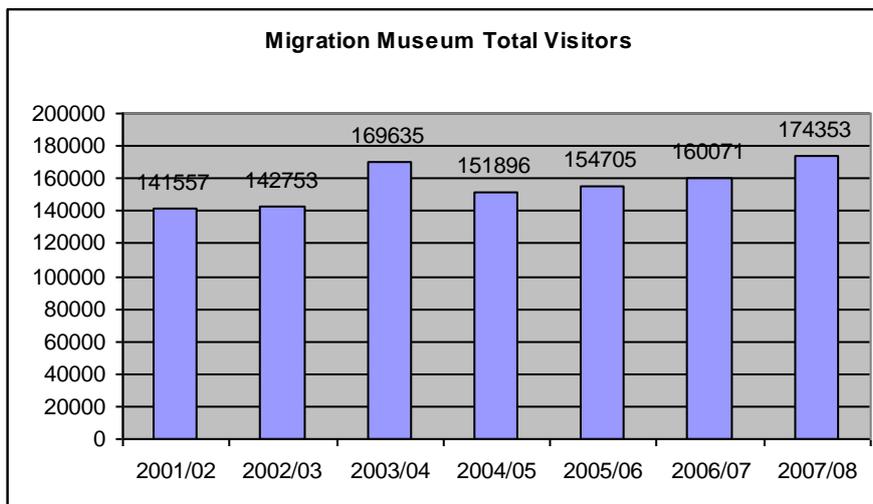

With an extremely limited marketing budget, marketing efforts were directed towards generating free editorial from television, press and radio for the changing exhibitions program and other activities at the Museum, including the Selected Chinese Prints of the 20th Century and the Hope: The Utopian Imagination of Young People on the Margins of Society exhibitions.

During the year the Marketing Coordinator also assisted the Museum by sourcing prominent comedians for the Who Do You Think You Are? comedy program aimed at high school students. This was a great success.

The Settlement Square television commercial was updated and provided to SBS to run during unpaid airtime as a community service announcement. The following community displays, held in the Community Access Gallery, also attracted media coverage:

- The Cyprus Story: From Ashes to Prosperity
- Zonta in our Community
- Vision, Hope and Life : Greek Migration Stories

The Museum's Director was entered into the Premier's Ruby Awards under the Lifetime Achievement Category to acknowledge her tremendous contribution to the Museum over the years.

National Motor Museum

The financial year closed with total visitor figures reaching 70 128, the highest number of visitors since 1996–97. This represented an increase of 7270 visitors over the year before, or 11.57 per cent.

The three major events held at the Museum, the Bay to Birdwood Classic, the Birdwood Music and Ute Festival and the Rock and Roll Rendezvous, continued to be important in maintaining visitor numbers, with 15 432 attending these three events. The Museum wishes to acknowledge the major support of Eastside Automotive, as well as Natrad, Printmatters and Australian Audio and Lighting Technology for the Rock and Roll Rendezvous event and the other range of sponsors who provided entrant prizes.

Rather than advertise specific exhibitions, a strategy was developed to produce a generic advertisement for the Museum on both television and radio. Generic radio advertisements featuring six different cars of interest in the Museum's collection and detailing their intriguing histories were aired. These advertisements ran on radio stations MIX 102.3 FM and Cruise 1323 AM continually, rather than just during school holiday periods. The objective was to build the general profile of the Museum, rather than relying on individual exhibitions to encourage visitors. Later in the year a series of generic television commercials was produced and aired on Channel 9. The creative execution of these advertisements featured a range of people imitating their favourite car engines. Later, this provided the basis for a new series of radio commercials to provide an integrated campaign.

Editorial coverage was used to promote the To Have and to Holden: An Australian Love Affair, Lobethal Grand Prix and the Jazz Age exhibitions and various car club displays. A special thank you is due to Holden for its continued support of the Museum again this year. This represented a significant milestone, being the tenth consecutive year in which Holden has supported the Museum. It is very rare for a corporate partnership to have such longevity. The Museum's partnership with Holden was entered into the Australian Business Arts Foundation Awards, the outcome of which will be announced later in 2008.

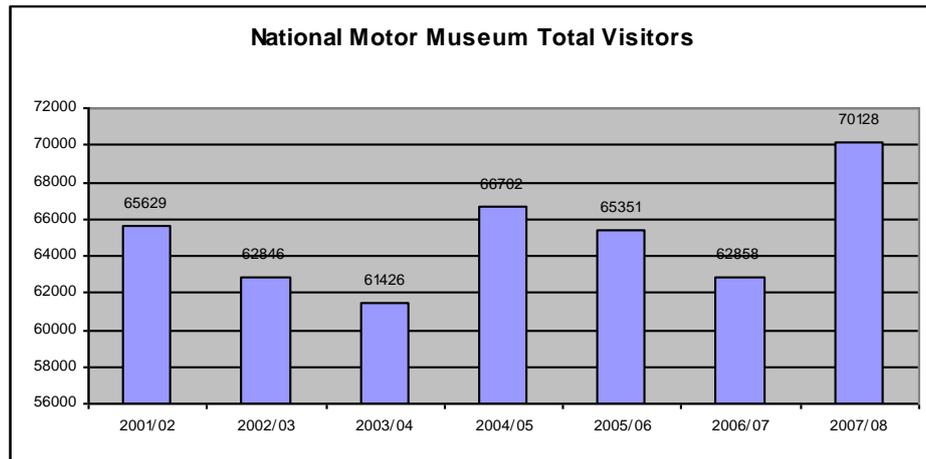

Several promotions were executed throughout the year, including one in August, in which visitors to the Museum over a two week period automatically entered a competition to win one of four rides on the Holden Airship. Over 1000 visitors entered the draw, which was promoted via editorial, interviews and on the Airship itself. The Airship hovered over the city for a three week period and promoted the Museum on its massive LED screen. The other promotion was executed with Radio MIX 102.3 FM, and invited visitors to the Museum to enter a draw to win a 'dream car' package, consisting of use of a chauffeur-driven luxury Holden for a long weekend and tickets to an event, Holden driver training, a signed Holden merchandise pack, a tour of the Holden plant, a car cleaning pack, a car maintenance pack and a car navigation kit. We thank the Royal Automobile Association, Police Credit Union, Meguiars and Holden for this promotion. The competition was promoted on radio for two weeks.

Holden displayed the internationally renowned Efijy concept car and the Holden Number 1 vehicle at the Museum for five weeks following the Clipsal event. This was a fantastic achievement, as it attracted many visitors. Promotion involved a full page advertisement in the Clipsal Souvenir Guide, as well as a media event in which motoring journalists were given the opportunity to have a one-on-one interview with Holden's Chief Designer, Richard Ferlazzo, at the Museum.

The Museum wishes to thank the RAA, Visions of Australia, ABC Local Radio, Treg Trailers, C&PA, Outback Vehicle Recovery, MedSat Technologies and reachnet for their support of the Off the Beaten Track: A Journey Across the Nation travelling exhibition, which was officially launched on the last day of the financial year. Significant effort was invested in the latter half of the year in devising promotion for this exhibition. It achieved an overwhelming amount of local and national print coverage, interviews and mentions on local and national radio, including ABC National's Bush Telegraph and Perspective programs. The story also appeared on ABC's Stateline program and Channel 9's Postcards. A media release schedule, which released the story in regional areas along the journey, was developed. ABC Radio in South Australia and the Northern Territory planned a range of live crosses and a regional outside broadcast in Burra, in addition to live coverage at the launch and arrival events in Adelaide and Darwin. A dedicated mini-website was developed to promote the project. This featured a blog for the event.

A significant arrangement was made with Just Cars magazine which saw a full page dedicated to the Museum each month. The page detailed exhibitions and events and profiled a range of vehicles in the collection. Over 300 000 magazines are printed monthly and it is the best-selling car magazine in the country. This is a fantastic profiling tool for the Museum.

South Australian Maritime Museum

The financial year closed with visitor figures reaching 72 444, well above the projected target of 70 000. This represented an increase from the previous year of 2.24 per cent (1587 visitors). The January school holiday period was extremely busy with 13 617 visitors. This was the highest monthly figure since July 1996.

The advertising program managed this year followed the Museum's programs. During July generic advertisements were run on radio stations MIX 102.3 FM and Cruise 1323 AM. These innovative advertisements featured a catchy jingle based on the classic 'Bound for South Australia' song and were an effective branding tool. During the October school holidays the Between the Flags: 100 Years of Surf Life Saving exhibition was advertised on radio stations MIX 102.3 FM and Cruise 1323 AM, as well as on Channel 9. Between the Flags was a travelling exhibition produced by the National Museum of Australia. The Maritime Museum thanks Sealink Travel Group and Flinders Ports for supporting this exhibition.

Record numbers attended the Pirates! Skulduggery at the Maritime Museum children's exhibition during January 2008, thanks to a print campaign in the Advertiser and Sunday Mail. The advertisement featured a competition in which the winner could win a 'pirate pack'. This simple mechanism attracted many entries. A similar print campaign was implemented for the Escape! Fremantle to Freedom exhibition in the April school holidays. Flinders Ports also funded two community access days enabling the Museum to offer free admission on 2 December 2007 and on 29 June 2008. Both days were promoted on radio stations MIX 102.3 FM and Cruise 1323 AM. Messenger Community Newspapers also generously sponsored the free days by providing significant editorial coverage. The re-launched Port Adelaide Nautical Collection exhibition Tapestry of Treasures was also promoted towards the end of the year.

The Museum would like to thank AGL for its ongoing support of the historic vessel, Archie Badenoch, throughout the year.

Business Services

The Business Services Unit provides financial and administrative services to the organisation and operates centrally from the Directorate at the Torrens Parade Ground.

The Unit also continued to focus on Occupational Health, Safety and Welfare requirements, working closely with other History Trust divisions and Arts SA.

Queen's Theatre

Eighteen groups used the Queen's Theatre from January until 30 June 2008 for a wide range of uses including private functions, launches and cultural events. A total of 6887 people visited the Queen's Theatre site to June 2008.

Substantial maintenance work was required at the Queen's Theatre during the course of the year. As a result of white ant damage identified in the previous financial year, repairs to one column and the adjoining roof truss were necessary at the Queen's Theatre.

The tender process was managed by the Department of Transport, Energy and Infrastructure (Building Management Facilities Services) and was awarded to Inca Constructions, with work commencing in August 2007. The work was overseen by Philip Minge, Project Officer, Cultural Heritage and Special Projects (Arts SA) and co-ordinated by Suzanne Ball, Queen's Theatre Manager.

Unfortunately, it was necessary to close the theatre whilst repairs were undertaken and the History Trust regretted the inconvenience caused to those with cancelled bookings. The structural repairs were completed late in 2007 and the theatre was available for hire from January 2008.

In addition, all museums considered aspects of cultural diversity in its broadest sense and access when devising annual exhibition programs. (Refer Appendix 13 for detailed listing of programs).

FINANCIAL REPORTING

Financial performance

A grant of $4 250 000 was made to the History Trust to fund some of its operations for 2007–08. The sum included $185 000 in specific purpose funding for the Museums Accreditation and Grants Program and South Australian History Fund, both of which are administered by the Trust. It also included $988 000 for accommodation costs, including building maintenance and operating leases, $65 000 for insurance and $91 000 for Arts SA corporate service charges. The financial outcome for the year was as projected with a net increase in cash of $175 000 which was from grants and sponsorships.

Annual financial statements

Refer to Appendix 14 for the History Trust's Annual Financial Statements.

Contractual arrangements

There have been no contractual arrangements.

Account payment performance

Generally, unless there is a discount or written agreement between the public authority and the creditor, payment should be within 30 days of the date of the invoice or claim. Some agencies receive invoices significantly later than the invoice date, due to supplier invoicing processes. Agencies may choose to report against the date the invoice is first received rather than the date of invoice.

Consultants

No consultants were engaged by the History Trust of South Australia during the year.

Fraud

The History Trust has disclosed to the Auditor-General the results of the Trust's assessment of the risk that the financial report may be materially misstated as a result of fraud. The result of the Trust's assessment indicates that the financial statements would not be materially misstated. The History Trust has disclosed to the Auditor-General all known actual or possible non-compliance with laws and regulations, the effects of which have been considered when preparing the financial report.

Category description: Indicates the recommended action corresponding to the lowest item performance score (recorded in the asbestos register by a competent person, as per OHS&W Regulation (SA) 1995, 4.2.10)

Interpretation: A brief real-world example of what each category implies for a site.

Greening Of government operations (GoGo) framework

The History Trust of South Australia developed a Sustainability and Greenhouse Gas Reduction Action Plan during 2007–08 and will continue to monitor progress and outcomes in 2008–09. In addition, the Trust maintains its commitment to energy efficiency, supported by all History Trust staff, in seeking and implementing a wide range of general housekeeping initiatives to minimise energy usage.

Sustainability reporting

The History Trust of South Australia is currently developing an Environmental Management Plan which includes reviewing waste management, and energy and water consumption at our museums.

Future gender reporting

The History Trust has a long-term commitment to considering the gendered nature of history in planning exhibitions, publications and other public programs. Individual research projects also include a gendered perspective.

Reconciliation statement

The History Trust continued to implement its 2006-09 Business Plan, which included a range of initiatives relevant to Reconciliation:

- The History Trust acknowledges the Kaurna People as the Indigenous owners and custodians of the Adelaide Plains at the entrance to the Exhibition Gallery, Torrens Parade Ground.
- The Migration Museum's refurbished galleries have a strong Indigenous history theme.
- The Migration Museum continued to offer Impact of Settlement, their cultural awareness-historical program, to a range of government agencies and schools. This program is now in strong demand from agencies, both within the South Australian public sector and externally, to increase understanding of Indigenous history in the State.

- The Migration Museum continued to work with Indigenous groups in planning the re-development of the permanent galleries.
- The Trust continued to work with all registered and accredited museums in the state to include recognition of Aboriginal land as a component of registration. The Trust also continued to encourage community museums to work collaboratively with local Indigenous communities.
- The Trust also asks all museums registered under the Museums Accreditation and Grants Program to acknowledge the Indigenous owners and custodians of the land their museums and communities are sited on.
- The History Trust's exhibition, The Voice of the People: Democracy Comes to South Australia, included an Indigenous perspective. The travelling displays, which toured regional South Australia presented aspects of Indigenous history. The following exhibition, Blue Jeans and Jungle Greens: revisiting the 60s and 70s also included an Indigenous perspective.
- The State History Conference in Tanunda in August 2007 included papers on South Australian Indigenous history.
- Reconciliation South Australia participated in SA History Week 2008. The event they listed was the launch of Reconciliation week at Elder Park held during June 2008.
- The River: Life on the Murray Darling, the touring exhibition, explored the social history of the Murray River, including the experiences and views of Indigenous people living beside the River.

Energy efficiency action plan reports

The History Trust maintains its commitment to energy efficiency by means of an ongoing program, supported by all Trust staff, in seeking and implementing a wide range of general house-keeping initiatives to minimise energy usage. This consideration is also incorporated in the Trust's approach to exhibition design and gallery development.

Performance against annual energy use targets

	Energy Use (GJ) <sup>1</sup>	GHG Emissions <sup>2</sup>	Business Measures <sup>6</sup>
Base Year 2000–01 <sup>3</sup> : Agency One	3428	1129	$117 000
Year Being Reported: 2007–08 Agency One	2730	633	$101 103
Portfolio Target<sup>4</sup> (for Year Being Reported) 13%	2982	982	$101 790
Final Portfolio Target<sup>5</sup> (for 2014) 25%	2571.00	847	$87 750

1 Energy use data will be expressed in gigajoules (GJ) and will be the sum of all fuel types used in each agency (ie electricity, natural gas, bottled gas, etc) for that period. This data will have been collected at a site level and aggregated up to agency level by the portfolio Reference Group member.

2 Many portfolios are pursuing a 'triple bottom line' reporting approach. It is therefore an optional extra that portfolios may wish to include Greenhouse Gas Emissions (in CO<sub>2</sub>) as a means of quantifying a significant aspect of environmental performance. Greenhouse gas coefficients differ for fuel types. Please contact Energy Division, Department for Transport, Energy and Infrastructure to obtain these coefficients for South Australia.

3 It is acknowledged that portfolio structures change over time. Therefore the Portfolio baseline will represent the structure of the portfolio in the given reporting period.

4 The Portfolio target for the current year is based on an agreed methodology and can be obtained through the portfolio Reference Group member.

5 The Portfolio target in 2014 should equal a 25% energy efficiency improvement from the base year 2000–01.

6 Business measures are also known as normalisation factors. A key performance indicator for energy efficiency is energy intensity, ie the energy consumed per unit of a given business measure. Some typical business measures are the number of employees (FTEs) and the square metres of floor area of a building. The energy intensity therefore becomes the energy used per unit defined by the business measures such as MJ/m<sup>2</sup> and MJ/FTE.

The Members of the History Trust of South Australia are responsible for the preparation and the fair presentation of the financial report in accordance with the Treasurer's Instructions promulgated under the provisions of the Public Finance and Audit Act 1987 and Australian Accounting Standards (including the Australian Accounting Interpretations). This responsibility includes establishing and maintaining internal controls relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of the financial report that is free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error; selecting and applying appropriate accounting policies; and making accounting estimates that are reasonable in the circumstances.

Auditor's Responsibility

My responsibility is to express an opinion on the financial report based on the audit. The audit was conducted in accordance with the requirements of the Public Finance and Audit Act 1987 and Australian Auditing Standards. The Auditing Standards require that the auditor complies with relevant ethical requirements relating to audit engagements and plans and performs the audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial report is free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial report. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgement, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial report, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial report in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of the accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by the Board, as well as the overall presentation of the financial report.

I believe that the audit evidence I have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for my auditor's opinion.

The Trust's Income Statement, Balance Sheet and Statement of Changes in Equity have been prepared on an accrual basis and are in accordance with the historical cost convention, except for certain assets that were valued in accordance with the valuation policy applicable.

The Cash Flow Statement has been prepared on a cash basis.

The financial report has been prepared based on a twelve month operating cycle and presented in Australian currency.

The Accounting policies set out below have been applied in preparing the financial report for the year ended 30 June 2008 and the comparative information presented for the year ended 30 June 2007.

c) The Reporting Entity

The consolidated financial statements have been prepared by combining the financial statements of all entities that comprise the consolidated entity being the Trust and the Migration Museum Foundation Incorporated, in accordance with AASB 127 Consolidated and Separate Financial Statements. A list of controlled entities is at note 23. Consistent accounting policies have been applied and all inter-entity balances and transactions arising within the consolidated entity have been eliminated in full.

d) Comparative information

The presentation and classification of items in the financial report are consistent with prior periods except where a specific accounting policy statement or Australian accounting standard has required a change.

Where presentation or classification of items in the financial reports has been amended comparative amounts have been reclassified unless reclassification is impracticable.

The restate comparative amounts do not replace the original financial report for the preceding period.

e) Rounding

All amounts in the financial statements have been rounded to the nearest thousand dollars ($'000).

f) Taxation

The Trust is not subject to income tax. The Trust is liable for payroll tax, fringe benefits tax, goods and services tax (GST), emergency services levy and local government rate equivalents.

Income, expenses and assets are recognized net of the amount of GST except:

- When the GST incurred on a purchase of goods or services is not recoverable from the Australian Taxation Office, in which case the GST is recognized as part of the cost of acquisition of the asset or as part of the expense item applicable; and
- Receivables and payables, which are stated with the amount of GST included.

The net amount of GST recoverable from, or payable to the Australian Taxation Office is not recognized as a receivable/payable in the Balance Sheet as the Trust is a member of an approved GST group of which Arts SA, a division of the Department of Premier and Cabinet, is responsible for the remittance and collection of GST. There are no cash flows relating to GST transaction with the Australian Taxation Office in the Cash Flow Statement.

Unrecognised contractual commitments and contingencies are disclosed net of the amount of GST recoverable from, or payable to the Australian Taxation Office. If GST is not payable to, or recoverable from the Australian Taxation Office, the commitments and contingencies are disclosed on a gross basis.

g) Events after balance date

Where an event occurs after 30 June but provides information about conditions that existed at 30 June, adjustments are made to amounts recognized in the financial statements.

Note disclosure is made about events between 30 June and the date the financial statements are authorized for issue where the events relate to a condition which arose after 30 June and which may have a material impact on the results of subsequent years.

h) Income and Expenses

Income and expense are recognised to the extent that it is probable that the flow of economic benefits to or from the entity will occur and can be reliably measured.

Income and expenses have been classified according to their nature and have not been offset unless required or permitted by a specific accounting standard, or where offsetting reflects the substance of the transaction or other event.

The notes accompanying the financial statements disclose income, expenses, financial assets and financial liabilities where the counterparty/transaction is with an entity within the SA Government as at the reporting date, classified according to their nature.

Transactions with SA Government entities below the threshold of $100,000 have been included with the non-government transactions, classified according to their nature.

Income

The following are specific recognised criteria:

Fees and charges

Revenues from fees and charges are derived from the provisions of goods and services to other SA government agencies and to the public. This revenue is recognised upon delivery of the service to the clients or by reference to the stage of completion.

Interest revenue

Interest revenue is recognised on a proportional basis taking into account the interest rates applicable to the financial assets.

Resources received free of charge

Resources received free of charge are recorded as revenue in the Income Statement at their fair value.

Other income

Other income consists of donations, grants and sponsorships. Income from the rendering of a service is recognized upon the delivery of the service to the customers. Government Grants are recognized as revenues in the period in which the Trust obtains control over the grants. Control over these revenues is normally obtained upon receipt.

Revenues from SA Government

Appropriations for Trust are recognised as revenue when the Trust obtains control over the funding. Control over appropriations is normally obtained upon receipt.

Expenses

Employee benefits

Employee benefits expense includes all cost related to employment including wages and salaries and leave entitlements. These are recognised when incurred.

Superannuation

The amount charged to the Income statement represents the contributions made by the Trust to the superannuation plan in respect of current services of current trust staff. The Department of Treasury and Finance centrally recognises the superannuation liability.

i) Current and non-current items

Assets and liabilities are characterised as either current or non-current in nature. The Trust has a clearly identifiable operating cycle of twelve months. Assets and liabilities that are sold, consumed or realised as part of the normal operating cycle even when they are not expected to be realised within the twelve months after the reporting date have been classified as current assets or current liabilities. All other assets and liabilities are classified as non-current.

j) Cash and Cash Equivalents

For the purposes of the Cash Flow Statement, cash and cash equivalents includes cash at bank and on hand and short term deposits at call.

Cash is measured at nominal value.

k) Receivables

Receivables include amounts receivable from trade and other accruals.

Trade receivables arise in the normal course of selling goods and service to other government agencies and to the public. Trade receivables are generally receivable within 30 days after the issue of an invoice or the goods/services have been provided under a contractual arrangement.

Other debtors arise outside the normal course of selling goods and services to other government agencies and to the public.

The Trust determines the provision for doubtful debts based on a review of balances within trade receivables that are unlikely to be collected. These are generally receivables that are 90 days or more overdue.

l) Inventories

Inventories (other than those held for distribution at no or nominal consideration) are measured at the lower of cost or their net realisable value.

m) Other financial assets

The Trust measures financial assets at historical cost.

n) Non-current assets acquisition and recognition

Non-current assets are initially recorded at cost or at the value of any liabilities assumed, plus any incidental cost involved with the acquisition. Where assets are acquired at no value, or minimal value, they are recorded at their fair value in the Balance Sheet.

o) Revaluation of non-current assets

Land and Buildings

Land and buildings have been valued at written down current cost (a proxy for fair value). Valuations of land and buildings were determined as at 30 June 2008 by Tim Nankivell, Australian Valuation Office. Land and buildings are independently valued every three years.

Plant and Equipment

Plant and equipment have been valued at historical cost.

Heritage Collections

The heritage collections are large and diverse. They include many items that are complex to value given considerations of market value and their unique representation of South Australia's social history.

The Trust adopted the following methodology for valuing heritage assets. Items under $10 000 were valued by the appropriate internal curator and items over $10 000 were valued by external valuers listed below. Heritage Collections have been valued at fair value. Items over $10,000 are independently revalued every 5 years.

The heritage collections have been revalued as follows:

- National Motor Museum collections as at 30 June 2008
- Migration Museum collections as at 30 June 2008
- South Australian Maritime Museum collections as at 30 June 2007

The external valuations were carried out by the following recognised industry experts:

Collection	Industry Expert
National Motor Museum	Antony Davies
South Australian Maritime Museum	Christine Courtney, SeaWitch
South Australian Maritime Museum	George Codz Marine
South Australian Maritime Museum	Allan R Rice, Allan Rice Marine Surveys
Migration Museum	Anthony Hurl, Tusmore Antiques

Depreciation of non-current assets

Depreciation is calculated on a straight-line basis to write off the net cost or revalued amount of each non-current asset over its expected useful life except for land and heritage collections, which are not depreciable. Estimates of remaining useful lives are made on a regular basis for all assets, with annual reassessments for major items.

The expected useful lives are as follows:

Class of asset	Useful life (years)
Buildings and Improvements	20 to 100
Plant and Equipment	3 to 25

Heritage Collections have unlimited useful lives. Their future economic benefits have not been consumed during the financial year. Therefore no depreciation is recognised in respect of these assets.

Asset revaluation reserve

Any revaluation increment is credited to the asset revaluation reserve, except to the extent that it reverses a revaluation decrease of the same asset class previously recognised in the Income Statement, in which case the increase is recognised in the Income Statement.

Any revaluation decrease is recognised in the Income Statement, except to the extent that it offsets a previous revaluation increase for the same asset class, in which case the decrease is debited directly to the asset revaluation reserve to the extent of the credit balance existing in revaluations reserve for that asset class.

p) Payables

Payables include creditors, accrued expenses and employment on-costs.

Creditors represent the amounts for goods and services received prior to the end of the reporting period that are unpaid at the end of the reporting period. Creditors include all unpaid invoices received relating to the normal operations of the Trust.

Accrued expenses represent goods and services provided by other parties during the period that are unpaid at the end of the reporting period and where an invoice has not been received.

All payables are measured at their nominal amount and are normally settled within 30 days from the date of the invoice or date the invoice is first received.

Employment on-costs include superannuation contributions and payroll tax with respect to outstanding liabilities for salaries and wages, long service leave and annual leave.

Contributions are made by the Trust to several superannuation schemes operated by the State Government and the private sector. These contributions are treated as an expense when they occur. There is no liability for payments to beneficiaries as they have been assumed by the respective superannuation schemes. The only liability outstanding at balance date relates to any contributions due but not yet paid to the South Australian Superannuation Board.

q) Employee benefits

These benefits accrue for employees as a result of services provided up to the reporting date that remain unpaid. Long-term employee benefits are measured at present value and short-term benefits are measured at nominal amounts.

Salaries, wages, annual leave and sick leave

Liability for salaries and wages are measured as the amount unpaid at the reporting date at remuneration rates current at reporting date.

The annual leave liability is expected to be payable within twelve months and is measured at the undiscounted amount expected to be paid.

No provision has been made for sick leave as all sick leave is non-vesting and the average sick leave taken in future years by employees is estimated to be less than the annual entitlement of sick leave.

Long service leave

The liability for long service leave is recognised after an employee has completed 6.5 years of service. An actuarial assessment of Long Service Leave undertaken by the Department of Treasury and Finance based on a significant sample of employees throughout the South Australian public sector determined that the liability measured using the short hand method was not materially different from the liability measured using the present value of expected future payments. This calculation is consistent with the Trust's experience of employee retention and leave taken.

Employee benefits on-costs

Employee benefits on-costs (payroll tax, workcover and superannuation) are recognised separately under payables.

r) Provision

Provisions are recognised when the department has a present obligation as a result of a past event, it is probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation and a reliable estimate can be made of the amount of the obligation.

When the department expects some or all of a provision to be reimbursed, the reimbursement is recognised as a separate asset but only when the reimbursement is virtually certain. The expense relating to any provision is presented in the Income Statement net of any reimbursement.

Provisions are measured at the present value of management's best estimate of the expenditure required to settle the present obligation at the balance sheet date. If the effect of the time value of money is material, provisions are discounted for the time value of money and the risks specific to the liability.

A liability has been reported to reflect unsettled workers compensation claims. The workers compensation provision is based on an actuarial assessment performed by the Public Sector Workforce Division of the Department of Premier and Cabinet. These claims are expected to be settled within the next financial year.

s) LeasesOperating Leases*

The Trust has entered into a number of operating lease agreements for accommodation, plant and equipment where the lessors effectively retain the entire risks and benefits incidental to ownership of the items held under the operating leases.

Operating lease payments are representative of the pattern of benefits derived from the leased assets and accordingly are charged to the Income Statement in the periods in which they are incurred.

All incentives for the agreement of a new or renewed operating leases are recognised as an integral part of the net consideration agreed for the use of the leased asset. Incentives received to enter into operating leases are recognised as a liability.

The aggregate benefit of lease incentives received by the department in respect of operating leases have been recorded as a reduction of rental expense over the lease term, on a straight line basis.

Lease incentives in the form of leasehold improvements are capitalised as an asset and depreciated over the remaining term of the lease or estimated useful life of the improvement whichever is shorter.

t) Insurance

The Trust has arranged, through the South Australian Government Financing Authority a SAICORP division, to insure all major risks of the Trust. The excess payable under this arrangement varies depending on each class of insurance held.

u) Principles of Consolidation

The consolidated financial statements incorporate the assets and liabilities of entities controlled by the Trust as at 30 June 2008, and the results of all controlled entities for the year then ended. The effects of all transactions between entities in the consolidated entity are eliminated in full. Refer to note 23.

Note 3. Changes in Accounting Policies

Except for the amendments to AASB 101 Presentation of Financial Statements, which the Trust has early-adopted, the Australian Accounting Standards and Interpretations that have recently been issued or amended but are effective, have not been adopted by the Trust for the reporting period ending 30 June 2008. The Trust has assessed the impact of the new and amended standards and considered there will be no impact on the accounting policies or the financial report of the Trust.

Note 4. Service/Program Information

Service/Program information has not been separately disclosed as the Trust has one identifiable major activity, being the maintenance and preservation of the state's historical collections and raising community awareness of the state's history.

Note 5. Employee benefit expenses

Credit Risk Exposure

The Trust's maximum exposure to credit risk at reporting date in relation to financial assets is the carrying amount of those assets as indicated on the Balance Sheet. The Trust has no significant exposures to any concentrations of credit risk.

Liquidity Risk

Liquidity risk arises where the Trust is unable to meet its financial obligations as they fall due. The Trust is principally fund from appropriations by SA Government. The Trust works with the Department of Treasury and Finance to determine the cash flows associated with its Government approved program of work and to ensure funding is provided through SA Government budgetary process to meet the expected cashflows. The Trust settles undisputed accounts within 30 days from the date of the invoice or date the invoice is first received. In the event of a dispute, payment is made 30 days from resolution. The Trusts exposure to liquidity risk is insignificant based on past experience.

Market risk

Market risk for the Trust is primarily through interest rate risk. Exposure to interest rate risk may arise through its interest bearing liabilities, including borrowings. The Trust's interest bearing liabilities are managed through SAFA and any movement in interest rates are monitored on a daily basis. There is no exposure to foreign currency or other price risks.

Sensitivity disclosure analysis

A sensitivity analysis has not been undertaken for the interest rate risk of the Trust as it has been determined that the possible impact on profit and loss or total equity from fluctuations in interest rates is immaterial.
